

Adapt to Learn is an established educational service offering specialist advice in autism, social communication and behavioural needs. Together, co-founders Melanie and Tracy have over 30 years' experience working for Local Authorities in the field of Special Educational Needs. They work with children ranging from two to eighteen years of age.

Adapt to Learn work closely with local families to help them to understand their child's additional needs, to analyse behaviour and to offer effective, practical strategies and bespoke interventions.

They also work with many local schools and Academy Trusts, providing detailed observations, Intervention Plans, one to one sessions and small group work.

Adapt to Learn can provide a wide range of practical and relevant training opportunities to help increase understanding of children's behaviour, social communication needs and autism. They are experienced in facilitating a range of parent/carer programmes, coffee mornings and individual consultations.

In our experience, working together using a child-centred approach enables children and young people to communicate more successfully, understand their own emotions, reduce their anxiety and ultimately be ready to engage with the world around them.

We believe a small change can make a big difference
